BRIEF HISTORY OF GURUDWARAS

Sacred places that preserve our roots, inspire our present, and guide our future.

GURUDWARA DAMDAMA SAHIB

Gurudwara Damdama Sahib is located in Talwandi Sabo, Bathinda district of Punjab.

This sacred place is associated with the Tenth Sikh Guru, Sri Guru Gobind Singh Ji.

Guru Ji stayed here from December 1705 to October 1706 during the period of Mughal oppression.

During this time, Guru Ji completed the compilation of the Holy Scripture, Sri Guru Granth Sahib Ji. The final writing of the Granth was done here.

It is also believed that the name "Damdama" (breath of the soul) was given by Guru Ji to provide strength and spiritual inspiration to the Sikhs.

This place stands as a symbol of perseverance, wisdom, and the timeless teachings of the Guru.

“ Sacred places connect us to our past and light the path for our future. ”

GURUDWARA MASTUANA SAHIB

Gurudwara Mastuana Sahib is situated in Mastuana Sahib, Sangrur district of Punjab.

This Gurudwara holds a deep connection with Sri Guru Gobind Singh Ji.

Guru Ji visited this place during his travels and blessed the area with his presence.

A Sarovar (holy tank) was also constructed here in the memory of the visit.

The place is named "Mastuana" which means one who is absorbed in the love of the Divine.

Gurudwara Mastuana Sahib is a centre of faith, humility, and devotion, inspiring devotees to live a life of righteousness and service.

“ Where history meets devotion, the soul finds peace. ”
